

Acknowledgments

The District of Columbia Fisheries and Wildlife Division would like to acknowledge and thank all the individual, groups, agencies and organizations that contributed to the development and writing of the District of Columbia's Comprehensive Wildlife Conservation Strategy (CWCS).

The Internal Group, composed of key staff from the District's Fisheries and Wildlife Division, included Ira Palmer, Basil Buchanan, Dhananjaya Katju, Mary Pfaffko, Jon Siemien, Michael Kaspar, and Sylvia Whitworth. As a very small Division, the District's Fisheries and Wildlife Division has only been officially managing the District wildlife resources for less than five years. In this short time, the staff has learned a tremendous amount about the District's wildlife resources, which has helped in the development of this CWCS. The staff's dedication and hard work has made the difference in what seemed like an enormous task for such a young organization as the Fisheries and Wildlife Division. My deep appreciation and thanks for a job well done.

Special thanks go to Mary Pfaffko, a Wildlife Biologist with the District's Fisheries and Wildlife Division, who did a yeoman's work in leading the effort to write the CWCS and even more for her unswerving spirit that helped the Internal Group keep focused and on task.

The Working Group, composed of the District and federal agencies, conservation organizations and other interested parties, was essential in the development of the District's CWCS and the future of the District's wildlife resources. The members of this Working Group were committed to meeting faithfully on a bi-weekly basis for nearly a year. Their wealth of knowledge in the area of wildlife biology and ecology, along with their expertise and experiences with the District's flora and fauna was invaluable. The Working Group included: Scott Bates, Shawn Carter, Ken Ferebee, Marcus Koenen, James Rosenstock, and Susan Rudy, National Capital Park Region, National Park Service; Richard Hammerschlag, Deanna Dawson and Mary Paul, Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, US Geological Survey; Dan Murphy, US Fish and Wildlife Service; Susan Greeley, National Arboretum, US Department of Agriculture; Doug Samson, The Nature Conservancy; Dave Curson, Maryland & DC Chapter, The Audubon Society; and Jeff Lerner, Defenders of Wildlife.

Special thanks go to the following individuals for their assistance to the Fisheries and Wildlife Division in its efforts to develop this CWCS. These include Naomi Edelson and Dave Chadwick, International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies; Glenn Therres, Gwenda Brewer, Natural Heritage Program, Maryland Department of Natural Resources; Judy Soule, NatureServe; and Steve McKinley-Ward, Anacostia Watershed Society.

Ira Palmer, Program Manager
District of Columbia Fisheries and Wildlife Division